Purpose:

The Vigo Primary School is committed to providing a workplace where all employees are treated with dignity. This policy outlines the expected behaviour of all employees and the School's approach to the management of concerns raised under this policy.

Discrimination, bullying, harassment and victimisation are not acceptable, will not be tolerated, and action will be taken. Appropriate management action may include formal action under the Disciplinary Policy.

In aspiring and striving to uphold the standards outlined in this Policy, Vigo Primary School is demonstrating its commitment to the pursuit of equality, inclusion and diversity.

Failure to comply with expected standards of behaviour:

There is no formal procedure within the Dignity at Work policy. If an issue is raised under this policy, one of the other school policies should be used as follows:

Concern raised by an employee:

An employee who believes they are not being treated in line with expected standards of behaviour should, wherever possible, talk to the person who has demonstrated the inappropriate behaviour to alert them to the fact that they feel it is in conflict with this policy and how to guide and the impact it is having to see if this resolves issues.

The Grievance Procedure should be used to address issues relating to Dignity at Work which are raised by an employee. Where appropriate, the Guidelines for dealing with allegations of Harassment and Bullying should be followed.

If, as a result of an employee raising a grievance, it is identified that a colleague or manager's behaviour has fallen below the expected standards, or any individual or manager is made aware of or witnesses such behaviour, dependent on the circumstances the manager/ appropriate manager, in conjunction with the Headteacher, will use either:

- the Disciplinary Policy where the behaviour is defined as willful or negligent, or concerns are raised maliciously, for personal gain or where they are known to be untrue

or

- the Performance Management or Capability Policy where the failure to comply with the standards of behaviour relates to a lack of skill, knowledge, experience or appropriate behaviours.

If an employee (Headteacher or staff member) raises a grievance about a governor, the chair of governors should investigate and meet with the governor in question to relay concern that their behaviour is in breach of the board's code of conduct. If the investigation discloses a need for further training, development needs, or a revised induction process, the governing body should put this in place as soon as possible. The chair should confirm the course of action in writing to the governor, clarifying the support and the expectation of improved relationships. If the governor in question, is the chair of governors, the investigation should be undertaken by the vice chair.

Concern identified by a manager or senior leader:

Where a manager identifies, following investigation, that an employee or manager is not complying with the standards set within this policy they should, in conjunction with the Headteacher, manage the employee using either:

- the Disciplinary Policy where the behaviour is defined as willful or negligent, or concerns are raised maliciously, for personal gain or where they are known to be untrue

or

- the Performance Management or Capability Policy where the failure to comply with the standards of behaviour relates to a lack of skill, knowledge, experience or appropriate behaviours.

Where the concern is in respect of the Headteacher not complying with the standards, the manager should raise the matter with the Chair of Governors who will arrange for the matter to be managed using either of the above policies.

Reporting Dignity at Work Concerns:

An employee who believes they are not being treated in line with expected standards of behaviour should report this to their manager, their Headteacher, other member of the Senior Leadership Team or Chair of Governors where it is a Headteacher not complying with the standards. Wherever possible this should be raised informally first, using the Grievance Procedure.

An employee who witnesses behaviour that falls below the expected standards should report this to their manager, the manager of the individual(s) involved or a senior manager as soon as possible.
